

The Papers of Josiah Royce – Harvard Library Archives

Call Number: HUG 1755

The listing of Box, Folder, and Document information begins on page 5 below.

The Papers of Josiah Royce are primarily the product of Royce's philosophical thought, research, writings, and teachings from his arrival at Harvard University in 1882 to his death in 1916. The collection, which consists of eight series, provides a comprehensive view of Royce's philosophical thought as a student and professor, his research and correspondence regarding the history of California, and his relationship with his colleague William James. The bulk of the collection spans from 1878 to 1916 and covers Royce's teaching appointments at the University of California at Berkeley and Harvard. The collection contains manuscripts of many, but not all, of Royce's publications, teaching lectures, research notebooks, and drafts, outlines, and professional correspondence. A small amount of Royce's personal papers, including autobiographical sketches, records of his undergraduate studies at the University of California at Berkeley, and family correspondence are also included. The collection contains photographs of Royce family members, dating from the mid 1860s through early 1900s. The collection also contains supplemental texts by Royce scholars and several Royce family genealogies.

Biographical note

Josiah Royce (1855-1916) was a member of the "golden age" of American philosophy and a foremost interpreter of absolute idealism early in his career. His philosophical thought later evolved into an examination and embrace of pragmatism, loyalty, and community. He investigated the mathematical and logical aspects of philosophy, providing a rigorous basis for his metaphysical inquiry.

Royce taught philosophy at Harvard from 1882 until 1916, beginning as an instructor and advancing to Professor of the History of Philosophy in 1892, Chair of the Department of Philosophy from 1894 to 1898, and Alford Professor of Natural Religion and Civil Polity in 1914. At Harvard, his colleagues in philosophy included William James, George Herbert Palmer, Charles Sanders Peirce, and Hugo Munsterberg.

Born in California, Royce graduated from the University of California in 1875. After study in Germany and at Johns Hopkins, he returned to Berkeley to teach from 1878 to 1882. From 1882 until his death, he taught at Harvard. Royce received an honorary degree from Harvard in 1911.

His major works include THE SPIRIT OF MODERN PHILOSOPHY (1892), THE CONCEPTION OF GOD (1895), THE WORLD AND THE INDIVIDUAL (1899-1901), THE SOURCES OF RELIGIOUS INSIGHT (1912), THE PHILOSOPHY OF LOYALTY (1908), and THE PROBLEM OF CHRISTIANITY (1913).

Chronology of Josiah Royce's life

1848

Josiah Royce's parents, Sarah Bayliss Royce and Josiah Royce Sr., arrive in Northern California by covered wagon. On the journey, Sarah Bayliss Royce keeps a diary that is later published as A FRONTIER LADY (Yale University Press, 1932). The manuscript later aids her son Josiah in researching his work, CALIFORNIA FROM THE CONQUEST IN 1846 TO THE SECOND VIGILANCE COMMITTEE [1856]: A STUDY OF AMERICAN CHARACTER .

1855

Josiah Royce is born in Grass Valley, California, a new mining town in formation.

1870

Royce enters the University of California at Berkeley as a member of its first graduating class of 1875. Joseph LeConte, professor of geology, becomes Royce's earliest mentor. Royce wins oratorical awards and becomes an editor of the student newspaper, the BERKELEYAN .

1875

Royce graduates with a degree in classics and a thesis on THE INTENTION OF THE PROMETHEUS BOUND OF AESCHYLUS .

1875

Berkeley businessmen, impressed by Royce's promise, fund one year of graduate work in philosophy at German universities in Heidelberg, Leipzig, and Gottingen. Before beginning his German studies, Royce visits Boston where he is introduced to the psychologist and philosopher William James. They become lifelong friends, colleagues, and at times intellectual counterpoints.

1875

University of California, Berkeley President Daniel Coit Gilman resigns to become the first president of Johns Hopkins University, the first American university dedicated entirely to graduate scholarship. Gilman offers Royce a two year fellowship beginning in 1876.

1878

Royce receives his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins. His dissertation is titled OF THE INTERDEPENDENCE OF THE PRINCIPLES OF KNOWLEDGE: AN INVESTIGATION OF THE PROBLEMS OF ELEMENTARY EPISTEMOLOGY .

1878

Royce returns to the University of California, Berkeley as an assistant professor of English. At Berkeley, there is no organized teaching of philosophy, Royce's chosen field.

1880

Royce marries Katharine Head, daughter of a former Massachusetts family living in the San Francisco Bay area.

1882

Christopher Royce is born.

1882

Royce accepts the opportunity to return to the East Coast when William James takes a year's sabbatical leave from Harvard and asks Royce to take his place. Royce arrives in Cambridge with his wife and infant son.

1882

Royce begins teaching elementary logic and psychology, and a course on John Locke, David Hume, and George Berkeley. He also begins teaching an advanced course in psychology.

1883

Royce is asked to continue teaching at Harvard for another year, as well as at Radcliffe College, then known as the "Annex."

1885

THE RELIGIOUS ASPECT OF PHILOSOPHY is published.

1885

Harvard president Charles Eliot elevates Royce to a five-year assistant professorship in philosophy and forensics.

1886

Royce publishes CALIFORNIA FROM THE CONQUEST IN 1846 TO THE SECOND VIGILANCE COMMITTEE [1856]: A STUDY OF AMERICAN CHARACTER , an early examination of how California joined the United States.

1886

Edward Royce is born.

1887

The CONCEPTION OF GOD , with Supplementary Essay, is published.

1889

Stephen Royce is born.

1892

Royce publishes THE SPIRIT OF MODERN PHILOSOPHY , originally given as a series of lectures.

1894

Royce appointed chair of Harvard's philosophy department for four years.

1899 -1900

Royce delivers the Gifford Lectures at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland. The lectures are published as THE WORLD AND THE INDIVIDUAL in 1899-1901.

1908

Royce publishes THE PHILOSOPHY OF LOYALTY , first presented as a series of lectures at the Lowell Institute in Boston and elsewhere.

1908-1909

Royce emphasizes the study of logic in his teaching. In addition to metaphysics, he teaches courses in logic and a seminar in the logical foundations of scientific methodology.

1910

Christopher Royce dies at the age of twenty-eight.

1910

William James dies.

1912

Royce suffers a stroke, then later undertakes several convalescent cruises to Latin America.

1913

Royce publishes THE PROBLEM OF CHRISTIANITY . This major work was originally delivered as a series of eight lectures at the Lowell Institute in Boston, with an additional eight lectures delivered at Oxford University in 1913.

1914

World War I breaks out; Royce publishes WAR AND INSURANCE.

1914

Royce is named Alford Lowell Professor of Natural Religion and Civil Polity by Harvard president A. Lawrence Lowell.

1916

THE HOPE OF THE GREAT COMMUNITY is published.

1916

Royce dies on September 14.

Processing Information

Processing information Over the past century, the Papers of Josiah Royce have been arranged and inventoried by several students, scholars, librarians, and archivists.

After Royce's death in 1916, Jacob Loewenberg, a former student of Royce at Harvard, prepared lists of Royce's scholarly works. Loewenberg was assisted by Professor William Ernest Hocking and Benjamin Rand, a graduate student and librarian in Harvard's philosophy department. Loewenberg borrowed selected manuscripts for his own research, most of which he eventually returned to Royce's widow Katharine Head Royce.

In 1930, Mrs. Royce donated some of her husband's papers, primarily manuscript writings, lectures, research notes and notebooks on logic, to the Harvard College Library, where they were placed in the Harvard University Archives, at the time a department within the Library. From 1940 to 1941 Edgar Franklin Wells, a graduate student in philosophy, organized the manuscripts, lectures, and most of the notes in 98 folio volumes. Some notes and all of the notebooks were housed separately in boxes. University archivists maintained the collection in the order established by Wells, adding subsequent series of material as later acquisitions were received.

In the summer of 1956, Victoria Hernandez and Boyd Cruise, participants in the Institute on Historical and Archival Management held at Radcliffe College, prepared inventories of most of the Royce manuscripts, lectures, and notes. In 1959, Frank Oppenheim, S.J. prepared inventories of Royce's notebooks on logic.

In 1989, the Archives acquired a major addition to the collection, consisting of most of Royce's incoming correspondence from colleagues, as well as family papers. This material, previously held by Royce's son Stephen, was preliminarily organized by scholars John Clendinning and Frank Oppenheim. More recent accessions of additional family papers, genealogical material, and photographs, were received from Nancy Hacker, a Royce family descendant, and her nephew Richard Compton.

In 2007, the Harvard University Archives initiated a fifteen-month project to improve access to the Royce papers. This project involved a full survey of the collection, some reorganization of material, and enhanced description. The project was carried out by Claudia Holguin, Jennifer Pelose, and Kate Bowers.

In the course of the project, the 98 folio volumes were left intact, but a detailed list of their contents was prepared and organized according to intellectual series. Unbound materials, including loose notes, notebooks, correspondence, and recently-received family papers were physically rearranged in series reflecting intellectual content and rehoused in archival boxes and folders. A few exceptions were made to collocate materials of similar physical format: oversized materials are now housed in box 143, and photographs, including daguerreotypes, ambrotypes, paper prints, and negatives, are housed in boxes 144-153 and boxes 155-156.

As a final step in the project, due principally to the way the collection had accumulated, a comprehensive finding aid was prepared with document-level descriptions for most material. In cases where documents appear to have been organized and numbered in sequence by Royce, these numbers have been included in the document descriptions. It should be noted that project archivists were unable to determine whether gaps in these numbering sequences indicate missing documents that were never received by the Harvard University Archives.
